

Editing Government Documents for Results

Enhancing the quality of your documents

Why You Should Take This Course

Government supervisors and senior managers are spending significant time “fixing” and rewriting documents prepared by their employees. This hands-on workshop will equip you with the skills you need to edit written materials and to produce text that is: clear in meaning; elegant in logic and flow; concise in length; and complete and accurate in content.

Objectives

By the end of this workshop, you will be able to:

- use effective writing and editing techniques to help you produce strong documents that are ready for your management review
- focus on understanding your message and making sure it gets across by paring down, sharpening and polishing your text so that your words match your message
- reduce the amount of time “fixing” and rewriting documents prepared by others

Audience

- analysts and employees at all levels of the organization who want to improve the clarity of their work, or need to edit their own work before submitting high-quality written materials to their busy supervisors
- supervisors, managers, and executives who review documents written by their employees or others

Duration: 1 Day

Price: $545.00 plus HST

Topics

In this workshop, you will learn how to:

- integrate substantive editing techniques to produce high-quality materials that flow logically and are tailored to the identified audience
- use copy-editing techniques to increase clarity and readability
- spot common writing mistakes and stereotypical language – and fix them through effective editing techniques
- use your own workplace materials in the “virtual classroom” to increase relevance
- learn tips and techniques for working collaboratively and tactfully with others to produce high-quality materials and to offer constructive criticism and suggestions in a non-threatening manner
